Sensient invests in Italy with ‘Bag-in-Bucket’, its advanced new aseptic filling line, dedicated to further supporting its customers.

GEESTHACHT, GERMANY – May 29, 2015 –

Sensient Food Colors Europe has invested in a new filling line in its Italian facility in Corte Tegge. The new line consists of a sterilizer together with a dedicated aseptic 'Bag-in-Bucket' filling unit -- BiBu -- for preservative-free colouring foods and food colours.

BiBu will also offer several other key customer advantages versus the previous system that used bags in outer protective cardboard containers. Easier to handle, robust plastic buckets now replace the former containers which also avoid the presence of any cardboard in production areas thus minimising microbiological risks. The ability for customers to receive the exact quantities required for their own batch production will improve product safety as well as significantly reduce additional weighing and handling costs.

Imerio Bortot, General Manager of Sensient Food Colors Italy commented, “this new filling line is an important addition to how we further support our customers. It enhances ease and safety in product use and controls costs through producing standardized units.”
