Sensient® Food Colors Europe Production Facility Achieves Key Environmental Management Certification

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI—May 20, 2013— Sensient® Food Colors Europe has achieved ISO 14001 certification for environmental management from the International Organization for Standardization (ISO). This important development is a significant step in Sensient's approach to protect natural resources in its manufacturing, logistics, and administrative processes.

Andreas Klingenberg, Technical Director, Sensient Colors Europe, said, “Our certified environmental management system will enable us to minimize energy, water, and raw materials consumption, as well as reduce waste and emissions to prevent environmental pollution.”

Achieving this certification demonstrates Sensient’s commitment to environmental protection in all its processes. Comprehensive team training for all aspects of environmental management together with enhanced risk assessment is included across all departments.
